Endorsement:—The certificate No. 12,924 granted on 22nd December 1939 to the original version of the film was cancelled by the Board on the ground that it was offensive to German sentiment.

The revised version has now been certified subject to the following excisions.—

In Reel I (a)—The scene showing the German Commander of the camp with a second German Officer in an undesirable manner, both making indecent gestures and remarks has been excised (50 feet.)

(b) The words "we are honoured" spoken by the German Commander to the British Officer wearing a Victoria Cross have been excised (10 feet.)

In Reel II—The scene showing the camp in which the war prisoners are stowed away at the beginning before the mutiny has been excised (300 feet.)

Endorsement.—

This film was examined and given certificate No. 1835, dated 30th October 1937 under the title "Repentance or Meri Bhul or Tajayeli Taruni." The original version of the film known as "The unmarried wife or Kunwari Patni" was refused a certificate by the Board on the ground that it dealt with the premeditated seduction of girls and brought into contempt the institution of marriage. The present version is now passed by the Board after the owners had made several changes in it. The principal changes are as follows:—

(1) The main title is changed into "Repentance" or "Meri Bhul" or "Tajayeli Taruni."

(2) Shanta the heroine is married to Binod and not to Barrister Pramade. Ganga is shown repenting her folly.

(3) The dialogue of "Free Love" is curtailed considerably. In the new version in Reel 7 part of the dialogue where Ganga is head saying that Hindu Society is "Jungle" and that she would not follow the commands of such society is cut out. (24 feet).
